

We all knew Rincewind's dubious history when it came to following the simplest spell - casting instructions - so when he asked to look after the install program, what could we say? Of course, we very loudly said "NO", but then he got the Wizards' Guild on to us, threatening all kinds of action involving vats of custard, bananas and visits to the Fishmongers' Annual Jamboree. Now, we'll put up and have put up with a lot of things, but have you ever been to the Fishmongers' Annual Jamboree? Well, that was the filleting knife that sliced the fishes' belly. So we gave in and yes, you've guessed it, Rincewind proved to be his usual reliable self and after several near fatal incidents of spontaneous marmalade combustion we had to step in. With a gag and handcuffs... So, once you've installed the Discworld CD, place the enclosed floppy disk in your disk drive and enter the following command...
