INTRODUCTION

PAGE 2

Welcome to Shivers - Harvest of Souls, the second game in the SHIVERS series. Hope you like it here in the odd little town of Cyclone, Arizona, because you won't be able to leave until you save your friends (not to mention your own hide). Feel free to look around, and don't worry if you get stuck. There's plenty more to do elsewhere!

We've incorporated some new features which we hope will enhance your experience. The toolbar includes a Map button, which allows you to jump to anywhere in Cyclone, and an Internet button which enables you to chat with your friends while you play. Other features include dynamic sound and the ability to adjust the size of your panorama, turn the smart cursor on or off, vary your pan speed and turn the captions on or off. You can even create your own version of some of the puzzles and challenge your friends.

If you're having technical troubles, read the README file or call technical support listed toward the back of this book. The README file is also a good place to check for the latest information about the game since this book had to be printed ahead of time.

So it's time to dim the lights and head into Cyclone, a little town that promises to turn your head around and send cactus needles down your spine.

Note: Though the game is loosely based on Native-American mythologies, it in no way represents actual beliefs and rituals of Native-American peoples.

The canyons are beautiful but dangerous.

HE'D HEARD STORIES OF THIS

PLACE. Ever since he'd crossed the state line, it seemed all he'd heard were stories about the evil that dwelled in Devil's Mouth Canyon.

But he'd thought some about evil and had decided that it was really just a concept that described the absence of good. It wasn't something real, something tangible that could jump out and grab you. Still, he was curious..... What was it about the canyon that was so compelling? He was here to find out. It was an intellectual inquiry of sorts. Not to mention a damn sweet spot for a hike.

But his girlfriend was going to require some convincing. Coming from New York, she found Cyclone's history as a mining town fascinating.

"Get a load of this." She was reading the tourist brochure. "The whole reason the town is called Cyclone is that these guys were on their way to hunt for silver in Colorado but got caught in a windstorm. While they were here, they dug in the streambed for water and struck silver. How lucky can you get? So the town is named in honor of the windstorm."

"The history of this canyon is pretty fascinating, too," he said. "Though less lucky." He really wanted her to come on this hike with him and was trying hard to interest her. "Listen to what it says in this book."

"Huh?"

"Well, if you can feign some interest for a moment, I'll read you what it says about Devil's Mouth."

"Consider it feigned."

"Let's see.... Here's where it gets interesting. 'Though life in the canyon proved to be bountiful for the Anasazi, the canyon was slowly abandoned over time until no inhabitants were left. Several theories exist to explain their disappearance, ranging from epidemic to drought to invasion by hostile nomads. However, no artifacts exist to support any of the theories, and in fact, many seem to disprove them. Some locals believe that whatever force eliminated the Anasazi is still at work today.'"

"Hmmm. They just disappeared without a trace and no one knows why?"

"Pretty much."

"And some people think it's like an evil curse or something?"

"Well, they don't go that far. This is a tourist guidebook after all."

"What a wild idea."

His plan was working. His girlfriend, always a sucker for a mystery, was taking the bait....

ALTHOUGH THEY HAD HOPED FOR AN EARLY START, it was late afternoon by the time they finally set out. Incredibly, no one seemed to know where Devil's Mouth Canyon was, or at least they wouldn't admit to it. When asked for directions, most of the townspeople simply shrugged and quickly changed the subject.

THEY FINALLY GOT LUCKY at the gas station on the edge of town. “Devil’s Mouth Canyon?” replied the man, pausing as a twisted smile filled his face. “I discovered those canyons.” He pulled a scrap of paper from his dusty overalls and a pen from beneath his headband and began to scrawl. “It’s kind of hard to find,” he said, handing them the paper. “These canyons are like a maze, but it’s worth it.”

There was definitely something odd, almost sinister, about the man, but they thanked him anyway and climbed aboard the jeep. With the top down and the back piled high with gear, they looked ready for anything. “Water...check! Flashlights...check--did you grab the sleeping bags?” “Are you nuts?” she asked, looking at him in disbelief. “After everything we’ve heard about the place, and especially after the way that guy looked at me, I’m beginning to wonder why we’re going there at all.” He wasn’t as excited about the trip anymore either but this was no time to admit it.

They drove on the boulder-strewn, gravel road until it got too narrow and rough to drive any further. A sign warning people to enter at their own risk greeted them. “This is the place, I guess” he said, pointing to the drawing on the map.

AS THEY HIKED UP THE CANYON, he was awed by the deep colors of the sheer red rock walls. It changed one’s sense of proportion to look straight up, and up, and up. And it changed one’s perspective to think that an entire culture that had once thrived here, mysteriously vanished. He made out the fine lines of the petroglyphs, which clearly seemed to be trying to communicate something. If only he could understand what they represented. Perhaps they held a clue to their creators’ disappearance.

“It’s funny that Cyclone hasn’t turned into more of a tourist destination, what with all these petroglyphs,” said his girlfriend, interrupting his reverie. “It’s probably because of that myth. What was it again?”

“Well, they believe that the petroglyphs are people frozen in stone, waiting for the chance to re-enter the world of the living.”

“And how do they do that?”

“Well, they attack you, I guess. The idea is that the people and the petroglyph trade places.”

“That’s really creepy,” she said.

“Not if you think about it. How could a petroglyph attack you? They’re made of stone, for god’s sake. And we all learned in earth science that stone is a mineral,” he assured her.

“But it’s just the idea to put a dent in tourism, that’s for sure.”

PROLOGUE

THERE DEFINITELY WAS SOMETHING

PAGE 6

EERIE about this place. The purplish blue veins that cut through the rock resembled the veins of a human body. And the strange glow that seemed to emanate from the rocks was enough to make one believe that something supernatural was going on. But he was too much of a pragmatist to believe in that kind of hooey-gooley. He figured that any townspeople who had disappeared here were just drunk -- after all, what else was there to do in Cyclone?

There were plenty of mine shafts around, too, and he was never one to underestimate people's stupidity...

But clearly it was the petroglyphs that were the most haunting. As he looked up at them, their forms seemed skewed and ominous, somehow lacking in balance and proportion. They seemed to be grimacing in celebration or in agony, it was hard to tell which. Perhaps the secret of whatever happened here, whatever it was that frightened folks so much, lay hidden deep within the petroglyphs, beyond human deciphering.

"Hey, check this out," he said, pointing to the canyon wall. There was one petroglyph in particular there that interested him. It was a horned warrior carrying a stick or spear, its face twisted into a fearsome grimace. They took a few steps closer.

"Is there something in the air here?" asked his girlfriend. I can't see clearly. It seems to be moving."

"Naw, you've just got petroglyphs on the brain," he said, grabbing her hand just as the petroglyph detached from the wall.

DARKCLOUD IS EVERYWHERE,
WATCH YOUR BACKSIDE.

Things change in Cyclone. If you can't find what you want the first time, go back and look again.

LIFE ESSENCE

INVENTORY

LIFE ESSENCE

Your life essence is the neon green stripe in the middle of the toolbar. It recedes when you carry a prayer stick around or when you get attacked. If Darkcloud does something that threatens your life, you also lose life essence. You gain life essence when you put a prayer stick in the correct location in the kiva. There are also specific places that you can find and regain life essence.

FLASHBACK

If you want to look at something you've found, click on the "Flashback" button and then choose from the selections. You can only look at something that you've already seen. To return to the game, click on the "Flashback" button again.

MAP

Use the map to jump from place to place within town. Click on the place you want to go to on the Map and you will be transported to the street location closest to it. It might be handy to use the map to return to town when you are in the canyons. But beware. You can only jump to places you've already visited.

Those symbols must mean something—pay attention to them.

INTERNET

You have two ways to interact with others: Chat Online (for Windows 95 only) and Puzzle Play (for anyone with e-mail).

Chat Online

You can play SHIVERS - HARVEST OF SOULS over the Internet's World Wide Web using the Sierra Internet Gaming System (SIGS) with players from all over the galaxy. We don't care what planet they're from, but all players need to have a working Internet PPP connection that supports WinSock32. If you're not sure if your connection meets these requirements, contact your Internet Service Provider for details.

Installing SIGS

SIGS drivers should have been installed when you installed this product. If this wasn't done, no biggie — you just have to reinstall the product.

Connecting to SIGS

1. SIGS should work with any Internet Service Provider with true 32-bit access. Because of this requirement, SIGS will not work with America On-Line, Prodigy, WOW, and some others.
2. Click on the "Internet" button on the toolbar.
3. Your system will establish an Internet connection, if necessary, and link to the SIGS servers. SIGS itself is free. (Your cost for Internet connect time to SIGS depends on your Internet provider.) If this is the first time you have connected to SIGS, select "New Member". You will be asked to enter your name, a password, and other information regarding your personal hygienic practices. Tell SIGS to remember your user name and password for you by checking the "Save password" option or write them down somewhere you'll be able to find them again (trust me, we get a lot of calls on this one).

Joining or Creating a Room

1. When you Join a Room, you are joining a chat room. This is a place to meet and chat with others who might want to play SHIVERS with you.
2. There are existing rooms that have already been created, or you may create your own room if you like.

PLAYING THE GAME

[toolbar]

Joining or Starting a Game

PAGE 10

1. After you sign into SIGS, you'll see the Gaming Rooms screen. Here you can "Join a Room" for the type of game you want to play, or "Create a Room" if you want to start something on your own or with friends. Use the SIGS Chat window to find out about games that are starting. If no one has started a game, you might want to start one and invite others to join. You might want to name your game after the room you are in, for example, "Latté Land" if you are in the Cyclone Cafe. You are then the Game Master. Starting a game does not restart SHIVERS, but starts a game session where you may chat with others while playing.

2. When you see a game you want to join, simply click on it and then click "Join Game". That game's Game Master will decide if you can join or not.

3. The Game Master clicks "Start Game" to get things rolling.

4. The SIGS Gaming Rooms screen will then disappear. To chat with the people in the game, hit "Enter". The word "Chat" will appear on the screen. Type in your message and then hit "Enter" to register your comments. As always, remember your manners.

Exiting SIGS

1. To exit SIGS, select "Internet" from the toolbar.
2. Exit from the File menu.

Help with SIGS

Use the on-line help within SIGS if you have any questions.

Create a Puzzle

You can redesign puzzles found in the game and e-mail them to your friends to try. Here's how to create your own Spider puzzle, which is the puzzle found in the sink in Ivan's Barbershop. Check the README file for other puzzles to redesign.

You will want to create a text file (in Word, Notebook, etc.) that is 15 characters wide and 16 rows long using a combination of the following elements:

X	land	1	green gate	6	blue button
A	blue bridge	2	blue gate	7	red button
B	red bridge	3	red gate	8	yellow button
C	yellow bridge	4	yellow gate	Space	(or any other character)
		5	green button		water

There are certain rules you'll need to follow when creating your version of the puzzle. Otherwise, you'll automatically get the Spider Puzzle that appears in the game.

■ You must have at least 40 water characters.

■ The Start and End will be in the same place every time (beginning and end of 7th row). This is done automatically within the game.

■ You can use only one of each color gate.

■ You can use as many of each color button as you want. The button triggers the associated gate(s) to go down.

PAGE 11

PLAYING THE GAME

[toolbar]

■ Traversing any blue bridge always triggers all of the red bridges; any red bridge triggers the yellow bridges; and any yellow bridge triggers the blue bridges.

■ The blue bridge will always be used to start and end. This is done automatically within the game.

■ You must name the file starting with “SPI” and make sure it is a “TXT” file. For instance, you can name it “SPIDER2.TXT”. Keep in mind that Win 3.1 only allows 8 characters.

Once you have created your puzzle and you want to put it in the game, copy the file into the same directory as the executable game. Files are read in randomly if you have more than one puzzle option listed in your executable directory. You can see which text file is imported into the game if you have the “Caption” option on. Good luck! Please note: If you solve a user-defined puzzle in Shivers, it does not affect your score.

If you’re still confused, here is an example:

```
XXXXBXXXXCXXA6
X0C0000000000X
X0X0000000000X
X0XXAX1XXCXXBX
X0X000X0000X00X
X0X000X0000XXAX
X0X000X0000000X
XXX0001XXBXXCX
X0X0000000000X
X0B0000000000X
X0X000XXCXXAX
X0X000X0000X00X
X0XXAX2XXAXXBX
X0X0000000000X
X0C0000000000X
```

Be careful, the bahos steal your life essence.

INVENTORY

You can hold up to twelve items in inventory at a time.

VIEWING INVENTORY

If you want to view an inventory item, click on it and it will become the cursor. Then click on the eyeball with the inventory item (cursor) to view it. To return the item to inventory, click on the eyeball or outside of the inventory item's image.

USING INVENTORY

Select an inventory item from the Toolbar. The item will become your cursor. Click on the screen with the inventory item (your cursor). If the inventory item cannot be used — surprise! — nothing happens. Once the inventory item is used, it disappears from inventory unless you will need the item again later in the game. You aren't punished for trying to use your inventory somewhere it doesn't work, so don't be shy.

COMBINING INVENTORY

While you're taking a close-up look at an inventory item, click on a second inventory item and with it in your possession, either click on the displayed inventory item, or click on the eye. If the two items cannot be combined, it will return to its place on the toolbar. If the items can be combined, watch it happen before your very eyes.

EYEBALL

Select an inventory item from the Toolbar. Then click on the eyeball with the inventory item (cursor) to view it. To return the item to inventory, click on the eyeball or outside of the inventory item's image.

CONFIGURATION

a) Captions - This feature is especially designed for people who are hearing-impaired or deaf. Text appears at the bottom of the screen accompanying the audio material.

b) Smart Cursor - Your cursor is smart. This means that the cursor changes colors to show you when there is something further to explore. It turns green to indicate that there is something there to be clicked on. It turns red to indicate that you should wait (for a really cool graphic or sound to load up). You can turn the smart cursor on and off here by clicking on it.

c) Full-screen/Half-screen - This feature will default to full-screen for all movies. If you have a slower computer, we suggest that you watch the movies at half-screen for better performance.

d) Solve Current Puzzle-This feature can be used when you are completely stumped by a mind puzzle and have given up all hope. You must be at the close-up of a puzzle before this button can be used.

e) Sound Performance - If the sound stutters or skips, move the slider (to change the size of the sound buffer) and then restart the game. The sound will not improve until you restart the game.

f) Pan Speed - Had a little bit too much caffeine today? You can increase the pan speed (to match your level of caffeine consumption) by moving the slide bar to increase the frames per second. This will make your panorama view move more quickly.

g) Pan or Window Size - If your machine is slow, you can use this feature to shrink the screen, which in turn will allow you to pan more quickly. This feature does not affect your view on close-ups.

2. RESTORE OLD GAME

This button allows you to access your saved games. You can choose to re-enter any one of your saved games at the point where you last saved. You can also delete a game from here.

3. SAVE GAME

Use this button to save the current game before trying something risky. If you're low on life essence, save and then if you do get killed, you can return to the game at the point where you last saved. You can test different strategies by saving your games under different names, and then returning to the game that you want.

The bahos are useless until awakened.

QUICK KEYS

F2

The F2 key changes the resolution of the screen. If you're panning too slowly in a panoramic scene, use the F2 key to create a smaller resolution. You can press it four times for a total of four different resolutions. Once at the smallest resolution, pressing F2 returns the screen to the largest resolution.

F3

The F3 key turns the caption option on so that text accompanying the audio material appears at the bottom of the screen. Press it again to turn it off.

F4

Press the F4 key to turn the "smart" cursor off. The "smart" cursor turns green to indicate that there is something further to be clicked on. Press F4 again to turn it back on.

F5

The F5 key reduces the size of the movie screen. If you are experiencing poor performance while viewing a movie clip, the F5 key reduces the movie to half screen. This should vastly enhance your viewing pleasure. Press it again to return to the original size.

CONTROL-S

Quick Save - Saves the game under the current name.

The TV's....they're important, but there is something very odd.

PAGE 15

PLAYING THE GAME

[game strategy]

OBJECT OF THE GAME

PAGE 16

The object of the game is to find your friends without being killed by whoever is stalking you. To do this, you must take the twelve prayer sticks to the kiva and place them correctly on the altar. Hurry to the kiva with the prayer sticks because you lose life when you carry them.

MOVING AROUND

Cursor - Move the cursor in every direction to see the view from where you stand — up to see the ceiling, down to see the floor, and side to side to see what surrounds you.

This arrow moves you forward to another panorama or to a close-up.

This arrow moves you back from a close-up.

You can move around the screen using the mouse or the arrow keys. Another option — favored by southpaws — is to use the following letter keys:

LETTER	DIRECTION
A	Left
S	Down
D	Right
W	Up

SMART CURSOR

Your cursor changes colors to show you when there is something further to explore. It turns green to indicate that there is something there to be clicked on. It turns red to indicate that you should wait (for a really cool graphic or sound to load up). You can turn the smart cursor on and off by clicking on it under “Configuration” from the Option Screen.

PRAYER STICK CURSOR

Your cursor becomes a prayer stick (bahos) when you pick one up. But beware: you lose life essence during the time you hold the prayer stick.

BATTLING PETROGLYPHS

You must be brave. The petroglyphs in the canyon will attack when you approach them. Your only defense is to move quickly but there is one problem. You must find the petroglyph that will awaken the power of your prayer stick (bahos) before you can progress further, but the only place you can do this is in the canyon. You can grab the map if you're not up to it, but you can't avoid the petroglyphs forever.

SCORING

The more curious you are, the better. The more nooks and crannies that you explore, the more file drawers that you open, the more twisting paths that you follow, the higher your score. But be warned that you won't get extra points for looking at something again and again or for solving puzzles more than once. You lose points and life essence when you are attacked or are put into a life-threatening situation. You also lose points (and lots of them) if you decide to use the "Solve Current Puzzle" button. You never know who or what might attack you, so be careful, or else!

On the bright side of things, you gain points and life essence when you put a prayer stick in the correct location in the kiva. There are also specific places that you can find and regain life essence. You can find your score on the Options menu.

DYING

Save often when your life essence is low so that if you do get killed, you can return to the game at the point where you last saved. When you're out of life essence, you're dead. End of story.

WINNING THE GAME

The game has three different endings, and many winding ways to reach those endings. Even though you may think you have won, there may be an even better way to win. You may want to compare your ending with someone else's by visiting our web site at www.sierra.com/games/shivers2.

ONCE YOU'VE WON

Congratulations! When you've gotten to the end of the game and you've won, you can "Quit," "Start a New Game," or "Explore." The "Explore" option lets you look around without getting attacked. This is your chance to take a closer look at some of those cool details that you may have avoided earlier. For some (we promise not to call you wimps), this is their favorite part of the game. Providing you can get this far, of course.....

You've got to wonder what would keep someone in a bizarre place like Cyclone. The following residents are just a few who may have ulterior motives....

CHARLES SPENCER:

Not even Charles's father, Ivan, is sure how the owner of a small motel in a remote part of the state developed such a high opinion of himself. But something is eating at Charles from the inside out. Could it be guilt over something he's done?

PHIL DUNLOP:

The fact that he's never left Cyclone may explain some of Phil's quirks. He certainly makes no bones about not liking strangers. Watch your back, or you might end up like the mummy on display at his gas station.

TAD MATTHEWS:

Even though he purchased the animal skins and heads on display in his savings and loan from a mail order catalog, Tad still envisions himself as the great white hunter. And you never know what visions of grandeur he'll try to fulfill next.

GEORGE BELLAIRS:

George likes to stick his nose into other people's business, not to mention their wallets. Hell and damnation are his favorite topics and he certainly seems to know his subject matter well. Perhaps he has firsthand experience.....

BURT THOMPSON:

Burt is a sleazeball. That's obvious. But what's less obvious is just how well he knows the canyons. In fact, he may know them too well for his own good.

ANDREW WASHINGTON:

Although Cyclone is completely out of control, Sheriff Andy seems to think that wearing a ten-gallon hat will solve everything. Maybe he's watched a few too many Westerns. Or maybe there's another reason that he's overlooking the chaos.

PEARL LARSON:

This ex-hippie escaped the city for small-town life and has come to be accepted in Cyclone, house of birds and all. But what was it exactly that she was escaping, and did it follow her here?

MAX WHARTON:

Nobody likes Max. Why should they? He's not just a loner, he's out and out mean. And if he's that mean in public, what's he like when you get him alone?

NORAH WHARTON:

If you could call anyone in Cyclone a social butterfly, it's Norah. Outgoing, friendly, and beautiful to boot. The kind of person you would never suspect of a thing....

And these are just a few of the townspeople. Who knows what dark secrets the others may hide? If you want to find out more about these and other characters, check out our Web site at www.sierra.com/games/shivers2.

MIKE WEBER:

OK, so he's blessed with good looks. We can forgive him that. But talented, smart, lead singer of an up-and-coming band, and Mr. Personality, too? Give us a break. How's a guy to compete with him?

LYLE WEBER:

Lyle's older brother, Mike, is a tough act to follow. But Lyle prefers backstage to up front and center; that's why he likes to play the drums. Give him some numbers to crunch, and he's in heaven, but let him work on his web page all day — that's nirvana.

OLIVIA FARMER:

Righteous babe. And a talented artist, too. She's made some damn sweet CD covers, posters, and T-shirts that create a signature look for the band. Pity she'll probably be off chasing the next dude by the time they get famous.

WENDY TERRERAS:

As Dave's long-term girlfriend, Wendy is like a sister to the band, and they're lucky to have landed such a smart one. If it weren't for Wendy, the band wouldn't have any lyrics, and we all know how important lyrics are, particularly when they hold clues.

DAVE LAUGHTON:

Happy-go-lucky is Dave's middle name. The day that the band becomes work with a capital W, he is out of there, because first and foremost, Dave likes to hang. In his mind, Cyclone sucks. Too much pressure, too little fun. Not his idea of a summer vacation.

You can die, you know.

WAS I EVEN THERE?

FAUCET'S RUNNING LIGHTS ALL ON
YOU DON'T NOTICE THAT I'M GONE
GONE THE FOOTSTEPS
AND GONE THE SIGHS
GONE THE SMILES GONE THE LIES.
DON'T YOU CARE
THAT YOU'RE ALONE
WHEN YOU AWAKEN SAFE AT HOME?
DON'T YOU SEE
IF NO ONE CARES
THEY WON'T KNOW
WHEN YOU'RE NOT THERE.

WAS I EVEN THERE?
DID I TAKE UP SPACE?
WILL YOU REMEMBER WHO I WAS WHEN ANOTHER TAKES MY PLACE?

FAMILY PHOTOS
GATHER DUST
FAVORITE TRINKETS START TO RUST.
FACES FADE
INTO THE PAST
THESE MEMORIES WERE SUPPOSED TO LAST.
PICTURES OF
A HAPPIER TIME
BEFORE THE HATE
BEFORE THE CRIME.
PICTURES PROVE THAT I WAS THERE
SO TELL ME WHY
NOBODY CARES?

WARM PLACE TO HIDE

SILENT BIRD

GILDED CAGE

SCARED TO VOICE

FEAR AND RAGE

FEATHERS CLIPPED

HANDS ARE TIED

NEED A WARM PLACE TO HIDE

NEED A WARM PLACE TO HIDE

SEARING WORDS, THE PEN OF FLAME

TORCH THE TRUTH, TORCH THE SHAME

WHO'S TO HELP OR WHO'S TO BLAME

TURN IT ON, BURN THE PAIN

SPELL IT OUT

Had a dream one night

and I didn't look.
twice

Mother Goose stole the canes from the three blind mice

Well, the four corners lie in a five alarm fire...and six feet under is my hearts desire

The seven deadly sins ate a hole in them all...

and a cat may have nine lives

but I watched ten

little Indians fall
ten
little Indians fall
ten
little Indians fall

You'll get over me, baby

when you're under the gun
whatever leftover you'll know

I'm right for once

Instead of giving up

don't let it get you down

you and two is forward

I'll be back on the ground
I'm here

when you need me and there when you want it.

and I may be wearing
out

but I watched
Ten little Indians fall
Ten little Indians fall
Ten little Indians fall

Set 'em
up

just to knock them
down

You may think you're too cool for words
but let me spell it
out

let me spell it
out
let me spell it

CANDYCANE DRAGON

Momma said "Don't run with s c i s s o r s "

Momma said "Don't play with r a z o r s "

"Talk to the Candycane Dragon

If you're looking for the a n s w e r s . "

Did you ever think you'd find a use for used chewing gum?

GET A GRIP

If you look out your window
You can see a real good deal
But it even gets better < BABE >
When you're under the window sill
Just some real strong fingertips

You'll get a pleasant surprise — —
If you can only get a grip

My Momma Told Me, Momma Momma
My Momma Told Me, To Get A Grip
My Momma Said To Pick The Very Best One And You Are It.

ALONE INSIDE

There is a place she guards she feels she's all alone inside one day she lost her soul, now this place she calls her home

It's quiet, it's haunting, there's a howling from the wind

Although no one likes it here, they're dying trying to get in

Offer her a flower and place it just right

One by one there are ten to touch so touch them left to right

"Watch out," she says.

"Watch out," she says.

"I'm watching out for you."

"I know," I say. "I know."

KNOW YOUR ENEMY

*EVERY MOMENT THAT YOU MIGHT STEAL LONELY PLACES CAN REVEAL
THE ONLY WAY AT THIS LITTLE GAME NOW IS TO KNOW YOUR ENEMY, AND TRUST WHO YOU CAN.
THERE'S EVIL THERE'S MADNESS BEHIND THOSE BABY BLUES
HE'S PULLING STRINGS' HE KNOW JUST WHAT TO DO
THERE'S NO TIME TO WORRY AND NO PLACE TO HIDE
IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT YOU'LL END UP TAKING YOUR LAST CADDY RIDE*

IANYI

FROM THE DARK OF A FURNISHED ROOM
YOU SURFACE LIKE A MISSING PERSON
COVER YOUR EYES
BLOCK OUT THE SUN
LIVE IN THE SHADOW FOR SO LONG.

BREATH OF LIFE...IANYI
READ LIKE A MYTH
WON'T SAVE YOUR LIFE
YOU RUN AND HIDE

FROM THE HEAT OF THE DESERT SUN
SHE RISES LIKE A MIRAGE
CANNOT TRUST YOUR EYES
LOOK AWAY
A BOOK ON A SHELF
UNTIL SHE'S GONE

THE BREATH OF LIFE...IANYI
READ LIKE A MYTH...
BURN THE PAIN!

MOVE WITHOUT A THOUGHT

People enter
Don't come out
Never a scream
Never a shout
Just disappear
Into the night
No wonder then
We're full of fright
But something keeps
Me coming back
In spite of fear
Of sudden attack
I feel the draw
Of the Canyon Dark
Where shadow dance
And lightning sparks
My feet move without thought
To the cliffs so sharp and steep.
My will has no defense
Against these urgings dark and deep
Against these urgings dark and deep
And I need to know
What secrets this hell mouth keeps.
If I descend, will I ever see,
Will I see the light of day?
Will I see the light of day again?
